RUSH AUSTRIANS TO FRONT

Italians, However, Are Ready to Check Large or Small Offensive.

Italian Army Headquarters, June 11.—Railroads behind the Austrian lines in Northern Italy are being run to their capacity night and day in bringing troops to the front, distributing them to different sectors and moving heavy guns and large quantities of munitions to positions near the battle line. A special system of drills to improve the physical condition of the Austrian soldiers and give them training for assaulting positions also has been put into effect.

The Austrians in the mountain district are under the direct command of Field Marshal Conrad von Hoetzendorf. Field Marshal Boroevio, commander-in-chief of the Austrian forces on the Italian front, is located in the Piave river district. It is he who last year promised to deliver Venice to his emperor and initiated air raids upon churches and monuments in that city until the Italian aerial pilots destroyed the effectiveness of the Austrian raiders.

It is known that the enemy is making strenuous efforts to prevent deserters from reaching the Italian lines, carrying information of troop dispositions. Heavy rewards have been offered for the shooting of deserters. The enemy, however, is being watched carefully by the Italians, who seek to checkmate a threatened offensive, whether it be on a large scale or intended merely to bluff the Italians from sending troops to France or to satisfy German demands for an offensive.

Behind the Italian lines the aspect of the country is peaceful. Children are seen fishing in the canals and streams or laying upon the great highways leading up to the front.

ALGERIA GRAIN TO FRANCE.

150,000 Tons to Be Furnished; Recruiting Gains.

Algeria will furnish France this year more than 150,000 tons of grain according to the report of the Algerian delegates who have just concluded their session in Paris. According to diplomatic dispatches remarkable extensions of the irrigated land in Algeria have been made under the military government and the enlistment of recruits for the army was completed without interference with the agricultural labor problem.

Recruits, the governor general reports, have promptly responded to the call and have gone to the depots in high spirits. Schools have been opened in which officers and subofficers are being trained for the new corps.

TO DEDICATE BUILDING

Knights of Columbus of Alexandria to Have Charge of Exercises at Camp Humphreys on Sunday Next.

The Knights of Columbus building, which has just been completed at Camp Humphreys will be dedicated on Sunday next. The ceremonies will be under the auspices of Fitzgerald Council, No. 459, Knights of Columbus, of this city.

The exercises will open at 10 o'clock in the morning with the celebration of mass in the new building, the Rt. Rev. D. J. O'Connell, bishop of the diocese of Richmond, being the celebrant. A special program has been planned for the afternoon, beginning at 2:30, which will be participated in by local talent from Washington and this city.

A large number of Alexandrians are arranging to go down to the camp to be present on the occasion. The complete program will be announced later in the week.

In referring to the building a correspondent writes:

"The building is centrally located directly back of the camp postoffice, in a grove of pines, and presents an attractive scene each evening. It is well lighted by electricity and the tables are always crowded with soldiers writing home. A graphophone and player-piano are popular parts of the equipment of the building, and the soldiers keep them going continuously each evening. Two screened verandas on the north side of the building face the open woods and nightly they are crowded because they are among the coolest spots in camp and naturally the boys flock there for a smoke or chat."

FUED WITH PRUSSIANISM.

Junkers Fear Loss of Control of Empire.

Washington, June 11.— The feud between the South Germans and the Prussian Junkers has been revived by the election of Deputy Fehrenback, a South German of Freiburg, to the presidency af the Reichstag, by a large majority. The Junker spokeman, pointing to Chancellor Hertling as a Bavarian, Foreign Secretary Kuehlmann as another, and vice Chancellor von Payer as a Wurimbürger, declare that Prussian control of the Empire is menaced. The situation is further complicated by the continued food shortage.

In dispatches received here yesterday, the extreme Junker von Oldenburg Januschau, reputed intimate friend af the crown prince, is reported as saying:

"Are the colors of the empire to be white and blue? (Bavarian colors). If we forget our old Prussianism, it is not only Prussia, but the empire that will be on its knees."

GREATEST TAX COLLECTION

More Than Two Billions Due the Government This Week.

The biggest outpouring of Federal taxes in the history of the nation will occur this week. More than $2,000,000,000 in income and excess profits taxes from individuals and corporations is due by next Saturday night, in addition the $500,000,000 which already has been paid in this year. Total receipts from these sources are expected to be about $2,775,000,000.

More than 6,000,000 separate payments of income taxes are to be made, and in addition hundreds of thousands of excess profits tax payments. Approximately three-fourths of the total tax will come from corporations and about one-fourth from individuals. Millions of persons will pay income taxes for the first time.

As an indication of the huge task imposed on the internal revenue machinery of the government, with its sixty-four collection districts, it is recalled that last year only 780,000 income tax payments were made under a former law and $809,000,000 was received on incomes.

He was seventy-one years of age, prominently identified with the business development of Jacksonville and took an active part in its growth from a hamlet to the great city of today though for some years he had been in failing health. At the time of the big fire of 1901 Mr. Burleigh was a large property owner, and, in company with many others lost very heavily Mr. Burleigh is survived by his widow and two daughters—Mrs. L. V. Brave Belgian Boy.

The bravery of a young son of the village blacksmith of Louvain, Belgium, in his recent attack upon a German general—Von Gluck—resulting in fatal injury to the Hun commander, is one of the thrilling scenes shown in "The Kaiser—the Beast of Berlin," which will be seen for the last time tonight at the Richmond.

The boy, a mere youth, openly showed his hatred of the Germans who were occupying his home village and angered at the constant speeches of the general, threatening death for any attack upon the troops succeeded in inflicting injuries upon the German general that resulted fatally.

At the Surprise tonight the Fox Kiddies with Jane and Katherine Lee and Francis Corbin will be seen in Wm. Fox's super de luxe production of "Alladdin and the Wonderful Lamp."

APPEAL FOR WORKERS

Red Cross Asks Aid of Alexandria Ladies in Making Surgical Dressings for the Soldiers.

Attention is called to the fact that the surgical dressings' department of the Red Cross in Alexandria is greatly in need of workers to help in making dressings for our wounded soldiers in France.

This is one of the most important branches of the war work and certainly every one should feel it her duty to contribute at least one morning a week to this great work of mercy.

Is there any woman in Alexandria who is not willing to do a little something to alleviate the suffering of our men, who are going and have gone across to fight and die for the freedom of their women?

Surely, no woman could help but thrill to their sacrifice and be willing to do her utmost in this work. Alexandria has done so splendidly in her Liberty Bond and Red Cross campaigns that it seems deplorable that her women should fall short in their contribution to surgical dressings. Morning after morning the Red Cross rooms are opened and only a faithful few answer the call of mercy and assemble to make bandages. The rooms at the corner of Pitt and King streets, are opened Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning from 10 to 1.f For those who cannot come in the morning, the rooms are opened Wednesday and Friday nights from 7:30 to 10.

The need is great and the opportunity open to you, will you not come and minister to the boys "over there?"

CLAIMS AGAINST RAILROADS

Order Issued by Director General McAdoo Concerning Suits for Personal Injuries.

The following circular, recently sent out by order of Director General Wm. McAdoo, relating to the settlement of claims against railroads in the South for personal injuries, will be of interest to the public in general as well as attorneys:

To all railroads and terminal companies under government control in southern territory:

The Federal Control Act contemplates that suits for personal injuries may be brought as heretofore, but provides that executions may not be levied on the property of the carrier while in the possession of the government. This means that while a judgment may be recovered, it devolves upon the Director General to provide for payment and this places upon him the responsibility of considering the merits of the claims and the persons to whom payment is made. It is the desire of the Director General that justice shall be done to all employes who are injured in the discharge of their duties. This does not mean that verdicts based upon prejudices or passion shall be paid or that large sums shall be paid by the government to attorneys and solicitors who have no claim upon the government. The right is reserved to consider the merits in determining what provision shall be made.

It will be the policy of the government to discourage litigation, and to deal directly with injured persons to the end that the injured person may receive the benefit of any amount which the government pays, without the expense of litigation, and without being compelled to turn over one-third or one-half to an attorney. You may, therefore, let it be known that such claims will be considered on its merits.

As to fee contracts: You are authorized to exercise a wise discretion, and are not required to make payment as provided therein, but only on such terms as will enable the person injured to receive just treatment. If the contract is unjust, you may pay the attorney such reasonable sum as will pay him for the services actually rendered.

C. H. MARKHAM,
Regional Director.

GREAT BATTLE RAGING

Germans Find Themselves Thrown Into a Shambles in the New Battle.

With the French Army in France, June 11.—Fighting in this war probably never has been more severe than that going on today in the great battle of French and German armies between Montdidier and Noyon.

The Germans attacking on a ground where the Entente Allies were ready to receive the shock, have found themselves thrown into a slaughter house whence most of them never will make an exit.

At the conclusion of the first 24 hours of the new battle the impression gained was that the powerful German smash had not brought the enemy the result he expected. The allied line was bent in the center quite insignificantly, and the resistance of the French opposing on the actual position of the combat appeared to be efficacious.

Extreme violence was the dominant note of the battle on the first day and desperate assaults with huge masses of troops seem likekly to continue at least for some days.

Paris, June 11.—Battling with unparalleled fury, the Germans are throwing fresh divisions into vain assaults on minor positions — not the main line of French defenses, on the front between Montdidier and the Oise Ten and twelve times these attacks were repeated in the last twenty-four hours, each time with the same result—frightful loss to the attackers.

The Matz Valley, where the German center is fighting, is proving a death trap for the Teutons. The French, unsurpassed by Sunday's offensive, lost no time counter-attacking with strong forces. It was the enemy who was surprised this time for manifestly he had not looked for such a strong wall defense.

Five German divisions already have had to be withdrawn because of the terrific losses. The Germans still are attacking six men to one yard. All day Sunday they were targets that could not be missed.

The French prevented two German divisions from reaching the jumping-off places which they were frantically trying to capture. These two divisions had to be retired before being actually engaged in hand-to-hand fighting, so murderous was the French artillery.

17,000 At Humphreys

,000 Fresh Recruits Overcrowd Camp; Many in Tents.

Camp Humphreys is rapidly becoming the most populous city in northern Virginia, more than 5,000 fresh recruits from the depot brigades from all over the country having arrived there within the last few days. The camp poulation, exclusive of civilians, is now in the neighborhood of 17,000 and still more are booked to arrive next week.

More than 2,000 troops arrived last week than were expected, and the housing problem might have proved difficult had it not been for a considerable supply of tentage. About 5,000 men are now housed in big tents holding nine men each.

With the growth of the camp, one of the great needs is more adequate transportation to take the men to Alexandria and Washington for the week-ends. From 50 to 75 per cent of the soldiers in camp receive passes to spend Sunday away from camp each week, and as the only means of getting away from camp is to take a jitney or truck to Alexandria, it can readily be seen that there is plenty of room for improvement of transportation facilities. It has been suggested that the government take over the Macalester or some other large steamer to relieve the situation.

In Memoriam.

Sacred to the memory of our dear mother, Annie E. Sullivan, who died one year ago today, June 11, 1917.

Some day perhaps we will understand
When we meet again in the better land;
You don't know the sorrow to be left alone
Till God sends a message to your home.

'Tis sad when He calls for one another
But worst of all when God calls for mother.

By her two daughters, Mrs. John Cornwell and Mrs. Freeman Mansfield.

CHOOSING CITY FATHERS

The interest in the present war seems to have overshadowed everything else. One-half of the members of the City Council will be chosen today, in compliance with the present state constitution. One member from each ward will be selected for the Board of Aldermen, and two members from each ward for the Common Council. The successful candidates will serve four years from the first of next September.

The election was exceedingly quiet in every way. Polls were opened at the usual places at sunrise and will remain open until sunset. The men conducting the election have been practically "killing time" all day.

No political issues are in evidence in this election. The main question is securing the services of able men to act as city fathers. During the past year it has been difficult to obtain quorums in the lower branch of the City Council.

It is hoped that those who may be elected today will manifest interest in the city's affairs. Alexandria at this time needs the best of men in its city council. The city has reached a point in its history when men of business should represent it. The city is now confronted by problems which demand keen insight on the part of representatives, and only men who will devote themselves to her interests should pose as candidates.

Alexandria is now in a procession in which it must keep in order to take the tide at its flood. New streets will soon be opened, improvements made and thousands of additional buildings will in the near future be needed to accommodate the many who will come into the community. After the new Council shall have been organized in September every citizen should do all possible to uphold the hands of the powers that be.

THE AFTER-THE-WAR POWER

Raw materials will play the dominant role in the conferences between the rations when the question of peace reaches a final discussion. And the United States, as a result of big plans that are now under way, will hold the whip hand at the council table. The moral effect that is being exerted by American the war will be dwarfed by the tremendous influence this country will be able to exert in the interests of humanity and for the protection of reconstruction.

It is significant that Berlin newspapers are beginning to admit that failure to obtain immediate deliveries of raw materials at the conclusion of hostilities would mean the economic ruin of Germany. They might add that Germany cannot stop fighting until she effects some agreement with her enemies that will give her definite guarantees that raw materials will not be withheld from the Teuton countries by the powers against which they are now directing a last, frantic offensive.

The United States now controls a big percentage of the world's raw materials. America owns the most important copper, steel, iron and coal mines in two hemispheres. American cotton is indispensable to the looms and factories of Europe. A dozen other essential commodities are numbered among the great resources of this country. The possession of these treasures is, however, merely the beginning of American strength.

The vessels now being turned out, and which will be turned out in the next few years by the 819 American shipways that are rapidly nearing completion, will give the American government an instrument for the control of raw materials that is understood and thoroughly appreciated by every alert government. This country will soon be in a position to enter into partnership with nations that have an abundance of raw materials and, by absolute control of the greatest merchant marine in history, practically dictate the distribution of the commodities. It would be in the power of the United States, for example, in another two or three years, to wreck the German nation by excluding her from a share in the supplies that will sustain her national existence.

Without the cotton, wool and leather that can be supplied only by the United States, or the countries with which she is certai nto form partnership, Germany would be barred from industries that gave her a generous share of the world's trade before the war. Germany cannot restore her shipping to the seas, or repair the wear and tear on her railroads and railway equipment, until the raw material is supplied by America, or countries closely associated with America. Deprived of metals, she could not revitalize the toy industry that was once an absolute German monopoly.

TURNING OF THE TIDE

Fighting on the western front yesterday was most furious and will go down in history as one of the decisive days in the great defensive campaign waged by General Foch during the present year. The brilliant defense of the French legions and, perhaps, the waning confidence of the German battalions mark the turning of the tide in the greatest battle civilization has ever endured.

As a cotemporary says, it may appear that the day has not yet come for congratulation, that the German hordes still are far from the defeat which will send Prussianism crashing down the chasm to oblivion.

On the other hand, knowing the spirit of the allied fighters, knowing the reserve strength which awaits the orders of General Foch and knowing the aavilable manpower now left the kaiser, there can be little doubt that the Channel ports are safe and that Paris will never be trodden by conquering hosts.

There can be no reason for anticipating a great allied offensive for many months to come, but there is cause for believing that the German military leaders can hold the balance of fighting power but a few weeks longer, and that in that period they can do little more than prepare against the day when General Foch will launch the first great drive of a united and completely allied army.

The attempt to force a passage through the Matz Valley has proven, more than any other action of the past two years, that Germany is slowly but surely being deprived of the raw materials with which war is made.

NEW PROHIBITION BILL

Sweeping War-Time Measure Designed to Outlaw Alcoholic Drinks.

Favorable action by the Senate upon the Randall amendment, the effect of which would be to stop the brewing of beer and the making of wines during the period of the war, is now out of the question, but as a substitute for this measure radical dry leaders are proposing a sweeping war-time prohibition bill designed to outlaw alcoholic drinks of every character until peace comes.

Such a proposition was fathered by Representative Randall, of California, Thursday when he realized that the attitude of the Administration regarding his beer and wine amendment, as outlined by Food Administrator Hoover had virtually killed it. Later in the day it was learned, moreover, that Senator Sheppard, who has swallowed and sponsored almost everything the drys have proposed, had rebelled against Mr. Randall's original proposal.

It is stated by Mr. Randall that his substitute will provide first, for the prohibition of the manufacture of all alcoholic drinks, mild or strong, while the war lasts, and will provide next that the government shall commandeer all ardent spirits such as whiskies, gin and such other distilled liquors as were affected by the original anti-distillation act.

This bill, according to Mr. Randall's view, must be offered to meet the "challenge" issued by Food Administrator Hoover, speaking for the President. In his public statement and in his letter to Senator Sheppard, Mr. Hoover opposed the prohibition of brewing and wine making primarily on the ground that to do so would place the country upon a "whisky basis." He said that such legislation would have the effect of stopping the production of light drinks, while leaving the saloons free to dispose of the three-year stock of ardent spirits now in the country. He said that was neither good business nor good prohibition. Proceeding a little further, the Food Administrator clearly indicated that he would support any dry measures which contributed to the conservation of food, if it did not at the same time, create a more unfortunate condition respecting national temperance and national morals.

This is the "challenge" which Mr. Randall and his associates have responded to. This is the declaration which they assume places Mr. Hoover on their side in a fight for straight and rigid war-time prohibition. And in enlisting the support of Mr. Hoover, some of the dry leaders feel that they have enlisted the aid of the President as well, inasmuch as Mr. Hoover is generally understood to have expressed the President's views.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Bolsheviki Tottering to Downfall In Short While.

Stockholm, June 11.—In Russia the counter-revolutionary movement is growing. The Bolsheviki is living its last days. Unless the present regime is overthrown by the combined efforts of other revolutionary democratic parties, there will be a counter-revolution of the monarchial parties in Moscow and Petrograd, similar to that which triumphed in Ukrainia. Skoropadsky, aided by the bourgeoisie and cadets, is ruling Ukrainia and has virtually restored the old regime. Mannerheim, in Finland, and Krassnoff, in the Don regions, have triumphed in a like manner. In a similar way the provinces of the Baltic region have been occupied, while the provinces of Pskoff and Minsk are under the banner of Austro-Hungarian imperialism.

Russia is threatened by foreign imperialists on the north, west and south. The Turks are again advancing in the Caucasus, aiming to unite at Tifis with the Germans, who are advancing from the north. With masked cunning, by friendly notes through the German ambassador, Mirbach, Germany is gradually approaching the heart of Russia in order to pierce it at the desirable moment. An alliance of German and Russian counter-revolutionaries, acting from two fronts—the inner and outer—are preparing for a final and complete counter-revolution.

Last week in Moscow a plot was discovered in which hundreds of reactionaries planned to kill the republic and restore the monarchy through Petrograd and in other centers in cooperation with German bayonets. The German command, of course, is taking no official part in these plots, but is splendidly informed of the situation and is ready to appear as the protector of the new reactionary regime at the proper time.

It is impossible to foretell immediate developments, but it is certain the respite is nearing its end, however much the Bolsheviki themselves seek to lengthen it. The Bolsheviki themselves admit "we are already a corpse, but there is no one to bury us." The Bolsheviki regime, due to methods of violence similar to the old czarism in an effort to preserve itself, is universally hated. The proletariat is leaving the Bolsheviki en masse. All factory workers in Petrograd have organized. Their conference demanded a reunited democratic front, abrogation of the Brest-Litovsk treaty and formation of a national, socialist Russia in order to restore industry, insure social reforms and end civil war. The Bolsheviki planned to dissolve the conference, but got cold feet. The conference is planning a general strike unless the Bolsheviki yield.

LEAPS TO HIS DEATH.

North Carolinian Loses His Life in Attempt to Save Another.

Asheville, N. C., June 11.—In vainly trying to save the life of Ed. Johnson, until recently a member of the pressroom force of the Asheville Citizen, A. L. Mills, a leading business man of Greenville, S. C., lost his own life at Laurel Park lake, near Hendersonville, Sunday afternoon. It is stated that Johnson, who was unknown to the Greenville man, became exhausted while attemping to swim across the lake. His cries for help caused Mills to attempt his rescue. Reaching Johnson after the latter had gone down for the second time, Mills was seized around the neck by Johnson who dragged his would-be rescurer down to death.

Mills was one of the leading cotton dealers in South Carolina. Both bodies were recovered.

Your Winter's Coal Supply

On account of rulings of the U. S. Fuel Administration, it seems doubtful if Virginia will receive sufficient anthracite coal to supply the demands. If present rulings are maintained, this shortage will be very great in Alexandria and we earnestly advise our customers to put in a reasonable amount of bituminous coal as a safeguard against a coal shortage next winter.

We are now securing some very fine bituminous coal which we believe will work in all characters of coal burners but the latrobe stoves.

Better Cooking by Electricity

Women have long known that electric cooking is cleaner, that it banishes all the dust and ashes of coal and wood and soot and fumes of gas. They have known that it makes the kitchen cooler; the air purer; that is the most convenient way to cook. Now they have the word of the women who stand for the most scientific cooking methods known, that electric cooking produces better results than any other means.

Let us demonstrate the various sizes of ranges and refer you to the satisfied electric range users.

IT COST ONE DOLLAR TO SAVE THIS LIFE

Perhaps It Was Your Red Cross Dollar That Gave This Broken Flier His Chance to Live.

By BRUCE BARTON
Of the Vigilantes.

From the ground they could see that there was something the matter with his machine. And even while they watched through their glasses he began to fall.

A minute later the little Ford ambulance was puffing its way across the five miles of shell-stricken road that lay between them and him.

They found him beside the machine. He was unconscious, but a tree had broken his fall.

"Just in the nick of time," said the doctor crisply. "He'll be a pretty sick boy for a few weeks, but we'll have him all right again and back with his French comrades."

So they put him into the little Ford ambulance, and—less than an hour after they saw him fall he was safe in a clean white bed.

"That's what it means to have plenty of equipment, plenty of ambulances and doctors and bandages and everything," said the Red Cross man who told me. "It means the difference in getting there on time or getting there just a minute too late."

"Wonderful!" I answered. "And how much did it cost you to make that trip—to save that one French boy's life?"

He flushed a little. "We don't measure it in terms of money."

"I know it. But what do you think it cost," I persisted—for gasoline and the trip and the bandages and all?"

"Perhaps a dollar, maybe two. But why do you ask?"

"A dollar!" I answered. "A dollar to save a boy's life! To send him home again from the war to the mother and father who have scanned every headline and waited breathlessly for every visit of the letter carrier! Can a dollar do a miracle like that?"

"It can," said the Red Cross man.

And then the thought occurred to me that perhaps it might have been one of my dollars.

It was somebody's dollar that did it. It might have been mine—or one of yours.

Who knows?

Three Thousand Mile Dash Across Russia to Succor Roumania—Heroic Work Required.

Poor little Roumania, once so happy and so beautiful! Robbed of its rich lands by German hordes, its people driven back upon themselves, the once picturesque city of Jassy is now crowded beyond its limits with the country's destitute and starving.

Nothing but the most heroic efforts of the American Red Cross has kept Roumania from actually disappearing from among the nations of the earth. When all those who could leave the country had fled Henry W. Anderson, American Red Cross commissioner to that outraged country, stuck to his post. Diseased, starving and ragged people were all about him. The cause seemed hopeless. Even Red Cross money could buy nothing in Roumania, for the country was stripped.

So Anderson appealed to our Red Cross in Russia. There were supplies there, but how could they be carried the 3,000 miles that separated Petrograd from Jassy. Russia was struggling against internal disorder, which in the Ukrainian territory was civil war. Even with the authority and protection of the Bolshevik government the case seemed hopeless.

Yet help came—a whole train load under the charge of Lieutenant Magunson of the American Red Cross in Russia. And Anderson sent this cable:

"We are today distributing food and clothing to more than 10,000 people and increasing numbers every week. Expecting shipment of four more cars of food from Odessa this week. By extraordinary effort we believe we can continue purchase of sufficient supplies to carry on work."

And so our Red Cross is showing all the world that not only are our men ready to fight for the right, but are ready to help all those others who are in this battle for freedom.

A GRUELLING NIGHT FOR THE CANTEEN MAN

A Red Cross Canteen man wearily banked the fires under the kettles. Their billet is in an old house near by. By the light of a candle the Red Cross convoyer undresses and rolls into his blankets. Suddenly there comes a sharp, cracking sound, and a red flare lights up the room. The convoyer rolls quickly out of his bunk, catches up his blankets and runs down the rickety stairs to the cellar. There he finds his French assistant and a lot of soldiers. They exchange nods and then seat themselves on boxes. Four more sharp, cracking noises follow in rapid succession, and a mournful roar. This is only the beginning of an artillery duel which lasts all night.

At break of day the Red Cross man bestirs himself, shakes his assistant and tumbles up the stairway out into the yard. It is strewn with debris. A shell struck the next house in the night and blew out the wall. The convoyer and his man set to work gingerly, for the air is chill. They poke the fires and throw on fresh wood and then set to work to prepare the food. Within an hour the canteen is ready for business.

A MOTHER'S PROMISE TO HER SON

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

My Dear One—I'm writing this very, very small and on the thinnest of paper, so that tightly folded it may slip into one of the olive drab pockets of your new uniform without encroaching for the tiniest part of an inch upon all the new things that you must have there—the passports and identification slips and photograph, the knife and pen and writing pad, the lists and numbers and names and ciphers, the address book and the thin manual you have been studying so hard and the slim little Bible, for this letter is a part of your equipment, too, or at least I like to think that it is.

I'm going to tell you in it just one or two of the things we've been trying not to say in these last days. You've said to yourself, haven't you, that there were possibilities that I, thank God, hadn't seemed to think of. You've marvelled gratefully, haven't you, that I could say goodby with dry eyes and talk about what we should do when the war is over. My dear, there is nothing—nothing—that can happen to you that I haven't foreseen in every detail since May, since the very beginning of it all. I know that some of our men are not going to come back. I know—as I write this in the room you love—that your fingers may fumble for this little piece of paper in some dreadful hour, a month or two months or six months from now, just to read it over once more for the last time, just to feel in your fingers out there in a shell lighted battlefield something that I have touched—for goodbye.

And thinking of all this for almost a year while you've been getting ready to go I've been getting ready to stay. Just as you planned I planned, and I said to myself: "When the time comes for us to part I shall make him a promise." Dear one, this is my promise, and I make it for the term of your own—"for the duration of the present war."

I promise you that while you are away, whether it is months or years, nothing except what I can give you and give all the others shall fill my life. I promise you that I shall devote myself, here in safety, to the work of making what you do easier and stronger and safer for you. I promise you that I shall give—and give and give—for the Cause! Not the money I can spare, not the time I have left when everything else is done, but all the money, all the time, all the energy I have!

Your whole life has been altered, has been set to sterner and graver music. So shall mine be. You will know self denial, privation and fatigue while the war lasts. So shall I know them. Even if black news comes, even if the blackest comes, I shall remember that against your brave heart this promise is resting, and I shall go on. And while there is one man among our million and among the millions of our allies who needs clothing and nursing and comforts and solace for your sake I shall not fail him.

Perhaps in God's goodness this note will come safely back to me in the olive drab pocket, and we will smile over it together. But, remember, until that hour comes I shall be always busy filling my own small place in the great machine of mercy and as truly under the colors over here as you are over there. God bless you!

WHEN A CUP OF COFFEE TASTES LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS

He Got His Cup and Then Went on—to Death.

Through the establishment of the line of communication canteens in France the American Red Cross is setting records in serving hot coffee, cocoa and sandwiches to the troops. One of these refreshment units made another new record recently, serving more than 50,000 meals in one week. At another a cup of coffee was served every ten seconds for a period of two consecutive hours.

In a single week these lines of communication canteens often serve 80,000 American and French soldiers.

Soldiers in Box Cars.

Do our soldiers and their allies really want this form of Red Cross service? A letter from a young American aviator, a 1917 graduate of Princeton University, is probably typical. It might be added that this man has since been reported killed after bringing down a German Taube. "A 50 mile train ride over here," he said, "instead of taking a few hours may take days. When we stop at a Red Cross canteen you can bet that a cup of coffee tastes like a million dollars."

It is not always possible for a regiment to provide sufficient food and hot coffee on these long journeys, where the men must often be packed standing into unheated box cars ordinarily used for carrying horses. So imagine for yourself the warmth, the cheer, the comfort that piping hot coffee and good sandwiches bring to our boys after a night on such a journey! You can just bet that it stiffens a man's courage. Your Red Cross is handing out this renewed courage by the piping hot cupful.
